

TUCC OWNED PROPERTIES

Hillcrest Lodge, 86 Cedar Street, Orillia

This 1.02 acre property was operated as a private hospital and long-term care facility prior to 1955 when the property was donated to United Church's Hillcrest Lodge Corporation to continue the operation of the long-term care activities. The Corporation operated it as such from 1968 to 1992. Thereafter, the property was leased first to a seniors' home operator and later to Orillia Soldiers' Memorial Hospital. Council assumed ownership of the site in 2002 and, under the enthusiastic and competent leadership of a revitalized Hillcrest Lodge Corporation, converted the building to a not-for-profit 31 unit home for hard-to-house and homeless seniors. It reopened in June 2008 and continues to be fully occupied. Hillcrest Lodge Corporation holds, operates and manages the facility under a long-term lease from Council.

40 Oak Street, Toronto - The Toronto Christian Resource Centre

This property, located in the heart of Regent Park, has been leased to the Toronto Christian Resource Centre since 1952. From its beginning, the CRC has delivered services and programs from the building for Regent Park residents and the homeless in that part of the City.

The CRC's traditional role of ensuring social justice issues are addressed for the people of Regent Park is expanding within the major community redevelopment being undertaken by the City of Toronto. The former building has been replaced with a new larger facility which includes a Community Hub for social services and grass roots organizations and 87 affordable housing units.

This project was funded by the CRC and its many contributors and private and public partners. Major construction financing came from the City of Toronto and the housing component will be managed by Dixon Hall. Council's contribution of the land through a long-term lease made this a viable and exciting project for CRC and The United Church of Canada.
